

Inspection, Audits & Quality Control

Introduction

If you are a buyer located a continent away from your product source, you should verify that your interests are being well protected and quality products are being manufactured. Despite improvement in long distance communication, there is still no substitute for local supervision of manufacturing. By employing an independent inspection entity, quality concerns will be identified and controlled at source, prior to shipment and possibly during production. In your absence, we can monitor the entire quality related process. Bader ME provide independent third-party inspection and testing services. You can benefit from our experience as we inspect products on your behalf at all stages from the sourcing factories, through the manufacturing process, to delivery.

An Expert Eye On Your Orders

ISO 2859 / AQL

An International standardization method for a random sampling inspection by attributes based on the mathematical theory of probability. This method provides the number of samples to be inspected in a given lot/shipment size. It also provides the specific criteria for acceptance or rejection of a shipment/lot based on the number of defects found, and provides a fair assessment, to both buyers and sellers, of product quality.

Acceptable Quality Level (AQL) is the minimum percentage defective that, for purposes of sampling inspection, can be considered satisfactory as a percentage average. It should be agreed upon between both buyer and seller.
